Laura soaking up twin cuddles in the NCCU with her boys, Kai and Maverick.

Look how far these little miracles have come thanks to your incredible support.

Miracle Twins: Kai and Maverick

Mater Prize Home has been changing lives since 1954! That's more than seven decades of sensational properties, big winners and incredible support from YOU! Thank you for helping to fund the vital medical research, equipment and patient care, that's offered hope and healing to thousands of patients... just like Kai and Maverick

When Laura went into labour at just 24 weeks and three days, she and her partner Troy were pushed into an unimaginable whirlwind, marking the beginning of a long and testing journey of survival.

Laura's twins, Kai and Maverick, were born dangerously early and were only just clinging to life. Kai weighed just 664 grams, and Maverick, an astonishing 390 grams. Maverick became the smallest baby born at Mater Mothers' Hospital Brisbane in 2023.

Kai had to be resuscitated as soon as he was born, and Maverick was immediately intubated to help him breathe. A team of specialist doctors and nurses at Mater Mothers' Hospital provided intensive, round-the-clock care to keep the boys alive.

"The boys faced challenges of their extreme prematurity and there were days where we didn't know if we'd take either of them home," Laura shares.

"I remember our first twin cuddle," Laura says through tears. "It was a team effort to make it happen, and I held them together for three hours. I just bawled. I didn't want to let go."

The twins spent a combined 253 days in Mater Mothers' Neonatal Critical Care Unit (NCCU) under the care of Mater's specialist teams.

Now home, the twins are making incredible progress. Both boys are busy crawling, exploring and sitting independently, defying the odds stacked against them.

Laura reflects, "We owe everything to the doctors, nurses, and the support we received. Without Mater, our boys wouldn't be here."

Associate Professor Luke Jardine, neonatologist at Mater Mothers' Hospital, highlights the rarity and severity of their situation: "Babies born at 24 weeks are at the very limits of viability. For Maverick, at under 400 grams, survival was extraordinary."

Associate Professor Jardine emphasizes that, "With continued research and care, we hope that every baby, even those born as early as 22 weeks, will not only survive but thrive."

By purchasing Mater Prize Home tickets, you are helping to support vital medical research, equipment and patient care, giving more families like Kai and Maverick's a chance to bring their miracles home.

I won a Mater Prize Home!

"I didn't believe it could happen. But it did, and it could happen to anybody," said Mrs. C when she received the phone call that she had WON a Mater Prize Home.

"We were going to retire in about two years, but winning has fast forwarded things. It also means that my children will benefit, and I feel so blessed to be able to give that to my kids.

We first started supporting Mater Prize Home when we had our son, we had a few issues with his birth, and Mater's medical team were wonderful. I thought buying tickets was a great way to give back.

Even now, I'm going to keep supporting Mater, through buying Mater Prize Home tickets."
